Alexis Robin, CXO and co-founder of pLink Leadership®, inspires people to be brave, make generous assumptions, and to "take themselves on." Her zest and expertise help her clients go bigger, be braver, and accelerate ideas into action. A trusted executive coach, Alexis brings energy to stagnant organizations and teams, resulting in improved morale, talent retention, and innovation.

Throughout her 20 years of corporate consulting and successful entrepreneurship, Alexis has worked across a wide range of sectors including tech, hospitality, finance, consumer goods, and government organizations. Alexis's expertise has informed many of the signature, best-in-business approaches developed at pLink Leadership. By focusing on competence, character, and consciousness, her custom leadership trainings positively shift organizational dynamics. Alexis masterfully facilitates leaders in growing their teams' capacity to create psychological safety and courage through insightful, honest conversations and imaginative ideation.

Alexis is the author of Leap of Faith: Cultivating Your Brave Heart and hosts the coaching podcast The Bright Side: Life and Leadership. She partakes in the great outdoors near her home in Truckee, California, and enjoys snowboarding, stand-up paddling, and forest bathing with her French husband and teen twins.
